

The Declaration of Independence

Topic: History | Words: 939 | Pages: 3

Outline

America's Declaration of Independence lays the foundation for the growth of democracy in the United States. The Laws of Nature and Nature's God and the concepts of equality and unalienable rights for all form the fundamental principles of governance. This makes Declaration America's most important historical document.

Introduction

The Declaration of Independence is America's most important historical document. The first opening paragraphs of the Declaration assert the fundamental principles of government, based on the theory of natural rights which had been set out and held by, among others, John Locke, Jean Jacques Rousseau and Emerich de Vattel. It establishes that a government exists to protect the citizens and also to protect their property as well. It asserts that the prime purpose of the government is not only to ensure social welfare but also to protect the rights of the individual.

Body

On human equality, the Declaration of Independence explains that "all men are created equal". Equality is one of the first principles articulated in this very important document. And the Declaration is a legal document that speaks of equality not just from a religious perspective but in the legal sense. It implies that all human beings have the right to enjoy equal opportunity, protection and legal rights. The law guarantees equal opportunity for every individual to participate in achieving social,
