Communication Situation Analysis Paper Today, there has been an influx in technology advancements in the workplace that have streamlined office tasks and improved employee productivity. Moreover, businesses are now better equipped to handle their customer's needs as well as enhance their competitiveness. These technology advancements include new communications channels such as e-mail, fax, audio, and video conferencing. In this paper, the different types of communications channels and the types of messages appropriate for each channel will be discussed as well as their effectiveness in the workplace.

Different Types of Communications Channels As one of the communication technologies commonly found in organizations today, a facsimile transmission, fax for short, is a product that allows documents to be sent over a telephone line almost instantaneously. Moreover, by sending or receiving e-mail messages via networks such as the Internet, individuals today can communicate on a one-to-one base or with several users all over the world. Audio conferencing is also a communication channel increasingly used in today's organization. By using telephone lines or satellite transmissions, individuals can talk to each other as they communicate over long distances.

Author, Gary Dessler, also states that audio conferencing can help an organization reduce its employee's travel time and costs by allowing individuals to participate in local or global meetings without leaving the comfort of his or her office buildings. Although audio conferencing may save time and money, this communication channel does not have the same advantages as face-to-face communication especially for issues requiring complex decision-making (Dessler, 2002).

Lastly, video conferencing is a communication technology that uses cameras, video monitors and computers that allows individuals in different locations to view each other as they interact. Dessler also states that this communication channel is especially useful for centralized employee training, international meetings, and distance learning by creating a virtual meeting room that allows participants to view documents, brochures, an
