

Chicken Wing Dissection

Background Information:

In this lab, you'll be using the information you just learned about the muscular system and blending it with information you learned during the skeletal system lessons.

As you dissect and observe the chicken wing today, keep in mind that tendons connect muscle to bone and ligaments connect one bone to another bone. You can see some tendons and ligaments in the diagram to the right, which illustrates the structure of your knee.

Procedures:

1. You will be working with raw chicken today, so please wear gloves while dissecting.
2. Remove the skin of the chicken wing, being careful not to cut through any muscle.
3. Find the triceps and biceps, observing the three origins of the triceps and two origins of the biceps.
4. Pull on the bicep muscle and observe what happens.
5. Pull on the tricep muscle and observe what happens.
6. Find a silvery white tendon connecting the muscles to a bone.
7. Carefully cut the muscles away from the bone, keeping the elbow joint intact.
8. Observe the cartilage and ligaments at the ends of the bones, then cut one of the narrower bones in half to observe the interior of the bone.
9. Clean up thoroughly and wash your hands. Answer the following questions.
