
Chapter 6 multiple choice strategic management

Corporate-level strategy is concerned with and how to manage these businesses. a. whether the firm should invest in global or domestic businesses b. what product markets and businesses the firm should be in c. whether the portfolio of businesses should generate immediate above-average returns or should be troubled businesses which will create above-average returns only after restructuring d. whether to integrate backward or forward. - correct answer b

The ultimate test of the value of a corporate-level strategy is whether the a. corporation earns a great deal of money. b. top management team is satisfied with the corporation's performance. c. businesses in the portfolio are worth more under the management of the company in question than they would be under any other ownership. d. businesses in the portfolio increase the firm's financial returns. - correct answer c

The more "constrained" the relatedness of diversification, a. the fewer the linkages between the businesses within the portfolio owned by the firm. b. the wider the variation in the portfolio of businesses owned by the firm. c. the more links there are among the businesses owned by an organization. d. the lower the proportion of total organizational revenue derived from the dominant business. - correct answer c

Wm. Wrigley Jr. Company once made only chewing gum. When Wrigley bought Life Savers (a line of candy mints) and Altoids (a line of breath mints) from Kraft, chewing gum then constituted less than 95 percent of revenues. Thus, Wrigley a. was moving away from its traditional single-business strategy toward a dominant strategy. b. was moving away from its traditional dominant strategy toward a related linked strategy. c. became a conglomerate since Life Savers and Altoids are unrelated businesses. d. probably planned to restructure these companies and sell them off. - correct answer a

Usually a company is classified as a single business firm when revenues generated by the dominant business are greater than percent. a. 99 b. 95 c. 90 d. 70 - correct answer b

The more sharing of resources and activities among businesses, the more diversification. a. linked b. constrained c. integrated d. intense - correct answer b

A firm that earns less than 70 percent of revenue from its dominant business and has direct connections between its businesses is engaging in diversification.
