- 2. Surplus - Because of specialization, people produce more than they need for themselves. This extra food and goods can be stored or traded for other things.
- 3. Government - To manage the surplus and the different groups, a government is needed. It makes laws, collects taxes, and organizes the community.
- 4. Writing - Writing is used to keep records of things like trade, laws, and history. It helps people communicate and organize their activities.
- 5. Technology - Civilizations develop new tools and techniques. They learn to use metals, build better ships, and create more advanced weapons.
- 6. Art and Culture - People in a civilization create art, music, and stories. They build temples, pyramids, and other grand structures. They also have festivals and traditions.
- 7. Trade - People in a civilization trade with each other and with other civilizations. They exchange goods and services, which helps them get things they need.
- 8. War - Civilizations often go to war with each other. They fight for land, resources, and power. They build strong walls and armies to protect themselves.
- 9. Science - People in a civilization learn about the world around them. They study astronomy, medicine, and other subjects. They use their knowledge to improve their lives.
- 10. Complexity - Civilizations are very complicated. They have many different parts and people. They are able to do things that other groups cannot do.
