CLA Guide & Tutorial

By Melanie Parker-Jones for

This guide covers CLA of the Canon FTb-n but will also be suitable for the earlier FTb. The 'n' model was a later variant with some extra parts which are simply omitted on the earlier FTb - the basic mechanics are identical as regards servicing though there are differences in parts should a repair be required.

The Canon FTb-n is quite complex to work on and not recommended for the beginner to camera repair. You will require some suitable tools in order to manage the CLA process. A list of tools is given in the introduction section of the guide. The guide will, I hope, be updated over time with additional sections to cover more detailed work.

While I have tried to cover all of the essentials in this guide it is recommended that you also acquire the Canon FTb Service Manual and the NatCam Service Guide from learncamerarepair.com as an accompaniment to this guide for more detailed technical information. Note that although the FTb and the FTb-n are very similar there are some differences in their construction as detailed in the factory service guides. Note also that even the FTb-n has variations in build from the factory.

It is assumed at the start of the guide that the camera functions in a broadly operable way. E.g. the light meter is responsive and that the camera winds and fires.

No liability is accepted as to the accuracy of the guide or problems arising from using it.
