

Geology Chapter 21 – Climate

Michael Wyession Washington University

Big Ideas Earth's lands display a remarkable diversity of climates. The major factors that affect climate include latitude, elevation, topography, the nearness of large bodies of water, the patterns of global winds, and the type and amount of vegetation.

Space and Time Climate classifications, such as the Köppen classification system, are used to recognize how climate responds to the different factors such as latitude and elevation. The major climate types are humid tropical, dry, middle latitude (with mild or severe winters), and polar.

Forces and Motion Earth's climate changes significantly over time, sometimes very rapidly. The driving mechanism for climate change is the variation in the amount and distribution of solar radiation due to changes in Earth's revolution and rotation (Milankovitch cycles).

Matter and Energy Climate change, however, has many other natural factors. Volcanic eruptions can change climate by adding gases and dust into the atmosphere. Changes in global ocean currents greatly affect how heat from the sun is distributed. It is even possible that changes in solar activity, perhaps associated with sunspots, affects climate as well.

Earth as a System Human activity affects climate both locally, with the development of cities, and globally. We are in a period of global warming due to an increase in carbon dioxide emissions and the reduction in forest land. This global warming involves an increase in global temperatures as well as a change in patterns of precipitation.
