

Chapter 2: Research Design

Introduction

A research design provides a guideline for collection, analysis and interpretation of data. A research method is a way for collecting data.

Criteria in Business Research

There are three most important criteria for the evaluation of business and management research. They are: reliability, replication and validity.

Reliability reflects a question of whether the results of a certain study are repeatable. After all, if different researchers would finish the same experiment with different outcomes, it would be a question who of them was right and who made a mistake in his research. A reliable research is that one which outcome is the same every time whoever the researcher is.

Sometimes researchers replicate the findings of others for different reasons. Therefore, studies must be replicable. The reason is straightforward - if a researcher does not describe his outcomes in details, it will be impossible for other experimenters to interpret the results.

Validity is concerned with the integrity of conclusions of a research. In other words, it examines whether the research is conducted in a right way. Scientists distinguish four types of validity.

Measurement validity (or construct validity). This type of validity deals mainly with quantitative research. It is concerned with a question whether the measurement really reflects the measuring variable. If it does not, then both validity and reliability are questionable.

Internal validity. This type of validity deals with the question whether a conclusion that incorporates relationship between two variables really works. If we suggest that certain independent variable causes variation in dependent variable, we must be sure that this is true and not other factor is the reason for this variation.

External validity. It concerns with a question of whether the results of an experiment also work beyond specific research context.

Ecological validity. This last type of validity checks that scientific findings also work in everyday life. For example, if an experiment is made in a laboratory or in a special room, there is a great probability that findings will be ecologically invalid.

A variable is an attribute on which cases vary. If an attribute does not vary, we say that it is constant. Constant attributes are of less interest to the researchers than variables. Two most common types of variables are independent and dependent variables.

There are four aspects of trustworthiness that are parallel to some quantitative research criteria described before:

- Credibility (parallel to internal validity) - the extent to which findings are believable.
- Transferability (parallel to external validity) - question whether findings in particular research apply to other contexts.
- Dependability (parallel to reliability) - concerns with a question whether findings also apply in other studies.
- Confirmability (parallel to objectivity) - deals with the problem whether researcher's values and views interfered experiment to a high degree.

Naturalism has many different meanings; the most common ones are the following. Naturalism (1) means a commitment to adopting the ideology of natural science methods; (2) means being
