2.1 Economic Systems

- Definition-A particular set of institutional arrangements and a coordinating mechanism for solving the economizing problem; a method of organizing an economy, of which the market system and the command system are the two general types.
- Determines what goods are produced, how they are produced, who gets them, how to accommodate change, and how to promote technological progress.
- Economic systems differ as to
 - who owns the factors of production and
 - the method used to motivate, coordinate, and direct economic activity.
- The four major role players in any economic system are households, business enterprise, the government, and the foreign sector.
- A closed economy circular flow diagram:

-Resources flow from households to businesses through the resource market, and products flow from firms to households through the product market.

-Opposite these real flows are monetary flows.

-Households receive income from firms (their costs) through the resource market, and businesses receive revenue from households (their expenditures) through the product market.

-Governments will also form part of the flow between the markets as well as in terms of taxes and services from and to households and firms.
