

CHAPTER 2 WORLDWIDE ACCOUNTING DIVERSITY

Chapter Outline

- I. Historically, considerable differences have existed across countries in the preparation and presentation of financial statements. These differences can result in significantly different amounts being reported in the financial statements prepared by companies using different GAAP.
- II. A variety of economic and institutional factors are thought to have influenced the development of a country's accounting system and cause differences in those systems across countries.
 - A. Legal system – In code law countries, accounting rules tend to be legislated; common law countries tend to have a non-legislative organization that develops accounting standards.
 - B. Taxation – Financial statements serve as the basis for taxation in many countries. In those countries with a close linkage between accounting and taxation, accounting practice tends to be more conservative so as to reduce the amount of income subject to taxation.
 - C. Providers of financing – In those countries in which family members, banks, and the government are the major providers of business finance, there tends to be less demand for public accountability and information disclosure. In countries where shareholders are a major provider of financing, the demand for information made available outside the company becomes greater.
 - D. Inflation – Countries with chronic high inflation adopted accounting principles in which traditional historical cost accounting was abandoned in favor of inflation-adjusted figures. This was especially true in Latin America. However, inflation has been successfully brought under control in most countries, and this factor is no longer as important in explaining accounting diversity as it once was.
 - E. Political and economic ties – Through previous colonization, a British style of accounting is used throughout most of the former British Empire. Ties between countries also help to explain similarities between financial reporting in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. Perhaps the most striking example of political and economic ties influencing accounting across countries is the adoption of IFRS for publicly-traded companies in the 27 countries comprising the European Union.
- III. National culture is another factor thought to influence the development of a country's accounting system. Using Hofstede's (1980) societal value dimensions, Gray (1988) developed the following hypotheses:
 - A. Conservatism hypothesis – Countries high on uncertainty avoidance and long-term orientation and low on individualism and masculinity will foster a more conservative approach to measurement.
 - B. Secrecy hypothesis – Countries high in power distance, uncertainty avoidance, and long-term orientation and low on individualism and masculinity will exhibit more secrecy (less disclosures) in accounting reports.
 - C. Research results provide some support for these hypotheses, especially the hypothesis that culture affects the level of disclosure in accounting reports.
