Dana J. Wilber, 2010 The power of Dana Wilber's insight is in its simplicity. Students are texting, networking, and blogging; i.e. writing and reading all the time everywhere, just maybe in places we aren't necessarily paying attention to. Build on their authentic interest and motivation using the technologies they are already committed to, and you've won half the battle. You won't believe how engaged they are; they won't believe they're learning for school. In iWrite, Dana shows you how to guide students through the complexity of new literacies, including how to discern between media, how to account for audience and voice, how to choose appropriate genre, and how to harness what they already know to be more successful in school. Dana deftly elucidates the lives of Millennials, those students growing up around the turn of the 21st century and the technologies embedded into their everyday reading and writing. She shows us how three accessible tools: wikis, blogs, and digital storytelling can be used to scaffold learning for our students. And she demonstrates how they can help us address 10 key issues in the literacies of today's students: safety, authenticity, practice, relevance, meaning, and identity, interest, and inquiry, cognitive development, community, process, motivation. Let iWrite show you how to capture students' daily literacy practices and develop them for the kind of writing we want them to learn. Publisher's description

Making the Most of the Web in Your Classroom Timothy D. Green, Abbie Brown, LeAnne Robinson, 2008 I have not seen a more teacher-friendly resource for using the Web in the classroom. The authors took both novices and experts into consideration. A must have in every school.

Elizabeth Alvarez, Math and Science Coach, Chicago Public Schools, IL. A user-friendly tool on many levels. I would recommend this book to media specialists, instructional technology teachers, and district coordinators for both content and technology.

April DeGennaro, Gifted Education Teacher, Peoples Elementary School, Fayetteville, GA. Translate Web technology into practical applications for the daily curriculum. Designed for novices and experienced users, this comprehensive guide includes all the need-to-know aspects of using the World Wide Web to support student learning. Making the Most of the Web in Your Classroom covers the language of the Web, describes Web editing software, and shows how to use Web tools that offer unique learning opportunities for students. This book examines issues of student safety, appropriate netiquette, and copyright and other legal considerations, and provides field-tested strategies, examples, and reproducibles to help teachers create powerful learning opportunities. Educators will be able to meet ISTE, NETS, technology, and content standards as they design and build Web sites. Help students develop their own Internet projects. Evaluate and manage Web projects. Featuring a list of key terms in each chapter, this timely resource will motivate your students and help make technology a seamless part of your classroom instruction.

High-tech Teaching Success! Kevin D. Besnoy, Lane W. Clarke, 2010 An easy-to-use guide to implementing the most exciting technologies to energize any classroom. High Tech Teaching Success: A Step by Step Guide to Using
