Most powerful substance to hold heat in atmosphere

Water vapor

How does carbon get into the atmosphere?

Atmospheric carbon dioxide comes from two primary sources—natural and human activities. Natural sources of carbon dioxide include most animals, which exhale carbon dioxide as a waste product. Human activities that lead to carbon dioxide emissions come primarily from energy production, including burning coal, oil, or natural gas.

Different types of greenhouse gases

There are several different types of greenhouse gases. The major ones are carbon dioxide, water vapor, methane, and nitrous oxide.

Definition of radiation, convection, conduction

Conduction is the transfer of thermal energy through direct contact. Convection is the transfer of thermal energy through the movement of a liquid or gas. Radiation is the transfer of thermal energy through thermal emission.

How greenhouse gases work

Solar energy absorbed at Earth's surface is radiated back into the atmosphere as heat. As the heat makes its way through the atmosphere and back out to space, greenhouse gases absorb much of it. Why do greenhouse gases absorb heat? Greenhouse gases are more complex than other gas molecules in the atmosphere, with a structure that can absorb heat. They radiate the heat back to the Earth's surface, to another greenhouse gas molecule, or out to space.

Calculating dew point

This can be expressed as a simple rule of thumb: For every 1 °C difference in the dew point and dry bulb temperatures, the relative humidity decreases by 5%, starting with RH = 100% when the dew point equals the dry bulb temperature.

If air cools beyond its dew point and still does not condense, the air is said to be

Supersaturated

Water collects on dust, ash, salt, nitrate, etc. When water collects on these, they are known as:

Condensation nuclei

Latent heat is when _____, _____, and _____. (Choose 3)

1. Energy is being released
2. There is no temperature change during a phase change
3. Energy is being absorbed

Difference between vaporization and boiling

The following are the two prime differences: Evaporation is the process of a substance in a liquid state changing to a gaseous state due to an increase in temperature and/or pressure. Vaporization is also the phase change from liquid to gas state but above the boiling point of the liquid.

Absolute humidity _____ (select all that apply).
