Condensation 	<h3>Matter Cycles</h3> Read the passage carefully before answering the questions that follow. Water is constantly cycling through ecosystems, moving between living organisms and nonliving components of the environment through evaporation and condensation. The water cycle, also known as the hydrologic cycle, is a continuous process that moves water around the planet. It is a closed system, meaning that the amount of water on Earth is constant. The water cycle is driven by the sun's energy, which causes water to evaporate from the ocean and other bodies of water. The water vapor then condenses into clouds, which eventually release the water as precipitation. The water then flows back to the ocean or infiltrates the ground, where it can be used by plants and animals. The water cycle is a continuous process that moves water around the planet.
