CELL DIVISION: HOW CELLS MULTIPLY

Have you ever wondered how your body grows or how you heal when you get a cut? It's all thanks to something amazing called cell division.

Cell division is the process by which one cell divides into two cells. This is how life stays healthy.

Every living thing, from a tiny microorganism to a large animal, is made up of cells. When your body gets a cut, cell division helps heal the wound. Without it, you wouldn't be able to grow, heal, or stay healthy.

Not only does cell division happen in our bodies, but it's also happening in plants and animals all the time. When a tree grows taller or a lizard's tail grows back after it's lost, cell division is happening there, too!

Cell division is the process that keeps living things healthy. Without it, we wouldn't be able to grow, heal, or stay healthy.
