ULTIMATE GUIDE TO DEALING WITH CYCLONE ALFRED

I think it's important to start by saying that the best way to prepare for a cyclone is to have a plan. This means knowing what to do before, during and after the storm. It's not just about protecting your property, but also about keeping yourself and your family safe.

One of the first things you should do is to check the weather forecast. If a cyclone is predicted, you should start preparing immediately. This includes securing your property, such as putting away outdoor furniture and covering up swimming pools. You should also make sure you have enough food and water for several days, and that you have a first aid kit and a fire extinguisher.

It's also important to know where to go if you need to evacuate. If you live in a cyclone-prone area, you should know the location of your local shelter and how to get there. You should also have a plan for how to evacuate your pets and any other animals you have.

During the storm, it's important to stay indoors and away from windows. If you have a basement or a storm shelter, that's the best place to go. If you don't have one, you should go to a sturdy building, such as a school or a community center. If you're outdoors, you should seek shelter under a sturdy structure, such as a bridge or a tunnel. You should never go outside in the eye of a cyclone and to wait until the weather system has passed entirely.

DR DAVID HENDERSON
 Dr David Henderson is a cyclone expert and author of the book 'Cyclone Survival: How to Prepare for and Survive a Cyclone'. He has been a cyclone expert for over 20 years and has helped many people prepare for and survive cyclones.

Taping windows will not make them stronger or more likely to withstand impacts

Dr Henderson says that taping windows is a common mistake that people make. He says that taping windows will not make them stronger or more likely to withstand impacts. Instead, it can make them more likely to shatter and cause injury. He says that the best way to protect windows is to use storm shutters or to board them up with plywood.
