Land Use and Conservation

The land on Earth is very valuable to us as a society, because we get many of our essential resources from it. We use land for farming to grow food to eat. We draw water from lakes and rivers for drinking. We use trees for building homes and other structures. The gas used in vehicles is also a natural resource that comes from the land. Things you use every day-even this paper-come from natural resources.

While we do use the land for many things, it is important that not all land is developed so that ecosystems are not destroyed. This is why land conservation is important. One way this is done is through National Parks. There are currently 50 National Parks in the United States. The land in National Parks can not be used for resources. They are a great place for recreation to enjoy the great outdoors.

Answer the following questions about the passage:

- 1) Name 3 ways that land is used for resources that are discussed in the passage.

- 2) Why is land conservation important?

- 3) What are National Parks used for?

- 4) Why do you think the land is important?
