Download and run the applet.

1) Select wave for the laser view. You can recognize the crests and the troughs of the light wave (red and black). What happens when the light reaches the water ?

2) the light that goes in the water is called the refracted light. What happens to the direction of the wave when it gets into the water ? (does it bend toward the dash line or away ? )

The dash line is called the normal to the surface.

2) You can change the position of the laser by dragging it. Try. How to place the laser relative to the water so there is no reflected wave ?

3) Change the view as ray. Grab the protractor. You can use the protractor to set the incidence angle at a given value. For example Set the you angle of incidence at  $i = 30$  degrees as shown below:

So do it yourself. The incidence angle is measured relative to the normal (dash line). Measure the angle of Argument-Driven Inquiry in Physical Science Jonathon Grooms, Patrick J. Enderle, Todd Hutner, Ashley Murphy, Victor Sampson, 2016-10-01 Are you interested in using argument driven inquiry for middle school lab instruction but just aren't sure how to do it? Argument Driven Inquiry in Physical Science will provide you with both the information and instructional materials you need to start using this method right away. The book is a one-stop source of expertise, advice, and investigations to help physical science students work the way scientists do. The book is divided into two basic parts: 1. An introduction to the stages of argument driven inquiry from question identification, data analysis, and argument development and evaluation to double-blind peer review and report revision. 2. A well-organized series of 22 field-tested labs designed to be much more authentic for instruction than traditional laboratory activities. The labs cover four core ideas in physical science: matter, motion and forces, energy and waves. Students dig into important content and learn scientific practices as they figure out everything from how thermal energy works to what could make an action figure jump higher. The authors are veteran teachers who know your time constraints, so they designed the book with easy-to-use, reproducible student pages, teacher notes, and checkout questions. The labs also support today's standards and will help your students learn the core ideas, crosscutting concepts, and scientific practices found in the Next Generation Science Standards. In addition, the authors offer ways for students to develop the disciplinary skills outlined in the Common Core State Standards. Many of today's middle school teachers like you want to find new ways to engage students in scientific practices and help students learn more from lab activities. Argument Driven Inquiry in Physical Science does all of this while also giving students the chance to practice reading, writing, speaking, and using math in the context of science.

100 Brain-Friendly Lessons for Unforgettable Teaching and Learning (9-12) Marcia L. Tate, 2019-07-24 Use research and brain-based teaching to engage students and maximize learning.
