

Questions 1 – 3 refer to the excerpt below.

"I believe we have made a decision now that will permit us to create an economic order in the world that will produce more growth, more equality, better preservation of the environment, and a greater possibility of world peace. We are on the verge of a global economic expansion that is sparked by the fact that the United States in this critical moment decided that we would cooperate, not retreat. . . NAFTA will . . . create the world's largest trade zone and create 200,000 jobs in this country by 1995 alone. The environmental and labor side agreements negotiated by our administration will make this agreement a force for social progress as well as economic growth. We are now making real progress toward a worldwide trade agreement so significant that it could make the material gains of NAFTA for our country look small by comparison. . . For this new era, our national security we now know will be determined as much by our ability to pull down foreign trade barriers as by our ability to breach distant oceans. We are rediscovering a fundamental truth about ourselves: When we lead, we build security, we build prosperity for our own people. We've learned this lesson the hard way."

– President Bill Clinton, "Remarks on the signing of NAFTA," 1993.
